Welcome to the Thirty-Sixth Annual Meeting of the Society for Research in Psychopathology (SRP)!

I am truly honoured to welcome everyone to the historic city of St. Louis – “Gateway to the West” – for the 36th meeting of the Society for Research in Psychopathology (SRP). This is our first totally in-person meeting since our pre-pandemic meeting in Buffalo in 2019. We are all so excited to get together to exchange ideas, share dinner and drinks, and maybe sing some karaoke! Since my very first SRP meeting in 1997, this conference has been my favorite event of the year. Not only do I love connecting with close friends and colleagues, but I leave each meeting with renewed inspiration and motivation for the academic year ahead. Like many of you, I sincerely missed these opportunities during the pandemic. At the same time, I am very grateful for the dedication, creativity, and hard work of previous years’ teams who saw the Society through this difficulty time. I am confident in saying that we have emerged stronger and more resilient.

First, I would like to thank Jutta Joormann for her leadership in organizing our first hybrid meeting last year. June Gruber, last year’s program chair, and Tom Olino, our local host in Philadelphia, worked extremely hard with Jutta to organize a hybrid meeting that maximized members’ ability to participate. Last year’s meeting posed numerous conceptual, logistical, and financial challenges. It is a true testament to the team’s dedication, hard work, and commitment to the Society that we had such an outstanding scientific program in a vibrant and stimulating in-person setting. Jutta, June, Tom, and the entire team deserve a huge thanks for putting on this meeting during what was still a very stressful time.

There are so many people who worked tremendously hard throughout this past year to make the current meeting happen. First and foremost, our wonderful program committee chair Dylan Gee who, along with the program committee, have put together a stimulating scientific itinerary filled with diverse topics and innovative formats. Deanna Barch, our local host, has gone above and beyond to organize this meeting, securing funding that will help us address our financial challenges this year. Relatedly, an enormous thank you to Ivy Tso, our intrepid Treasurer, who has worked tirelessly over the past several years, under very challenging and uncertain circumstances, to maintain the financial health of the Society. Huge thanks also to our Secretary, Robin Nusslock, who knows all things and works hard to keep everything organized and on track. Many thanks to the entire Executive Board for attending several meetings throughout the year and making decisions that enhanced not only this year’s meeting, but will also impact the Society going forward.

I would also like to extend a sincere thank you to our Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Committee, chaired by Lira Yoon and Tom Olino. This year, the committee worked with the Executive committee to institute a new award -- Sustained Contributions to Social Justice in Psychopathology Award. We are excited to add this award to our roster and look forward to honouring the important social justice work of our psychopathology colleagues. This year's program sees many additional initiatives aimed at increasing the diversity of our membership and our science. Thank you to everyone who has dedicated their time to this important committee. There are so many more people to thank, and we will take the time to do so at the meeting.

A reminder that we have a very active twitter account: @srp_science. Please tag us if you share conference experiences.

Finally, on a personal note, thank YOU SRP Members for your dedication to the society and for all of the input, mentorship, and support you have provided to me during my tenure as President and over my entire career with SRP. I hope that you all enjoy your time in St. Louis connecting with friends and colleagues and joining in the outstanding scientific program. I can't wait to see everyone!

Structural Racism and Mental Health: Beyond the “Clown at the Circus”
Friday, September 22, 2023
4:00 PM – 5:00 PM CST

Evidence suggests a clear association between individual experiences of racial discrimination and poor mental health, but fewer studies have examined links between structural racism and mental health. This presentation will offer a conceptual model for examining specific aspects of structural racism across organizational, neighborhood, cultural, and societal domains and accompanying biopsychosocial mechanisms underlying the impact of structural racism on mental health. Preliminary survey and longitudinal data focusing on U.S. Black adolescents and young adults will be presented to illustrate associations between institutional and cultural racism and mental health. I will discuss the potential for these data to inform new opportunities for structural and therapeutic interventions to eliminate health disparities and promote health equity.

HACKATHON

On Friday (5:15-6:30 CST), join us for Problem-Solving Challenges in Clinical Science Training! The field of clinical science is uniquely poised to advance knowledge about the etiology and treatment of psychopathology in ways that can reduce the immense burden of mental health disorders. However, progress on this goal will require tackling significant challenges inherent in training the next generation of clinical scientists. This hackathon is designed to provide a space to brainstorm and problem-solve as a community of psychopathology researchers. This session is intended for ALL conference attendees (faculty, post-docs, graduate students, research assistants, etc.), and all are welcome! We will start as a group to review the session goals and then break out into three groups, each focused on tackling particular challenges relevant to a specific stage of training (preparing for graduate training, graduate training, and predoctoral clinical internship), before coming back together for discussion at the end. Attendees from all career stages are welcome in each room (e.g., the internship room is not just for people on or preparing for internship!) - tackling these challenges will require collaboration and discussions across individuals at all career stages! Note: This is also a great opportunity to connect with folks at the conference across training and institutions!

CAREER DEVELOPMENT PANEL

On Friday, September 22nd, our speakers will come together for a panel Q&A on Career Development in Psychopathology Research. The session will include discussions with the panelists on relevant and timely Career Development topics including Career Paths, Navigating Transitions, Time Management, Grants and Funding, and Work/Life Balance. There will also be time for audience-led Q&A.
